

ABSTRACT

A navigation system includes a Web browser having a feature for displaying a list of bookmarks or favorites. The Web browser includes the ability to generate and display a list of links that are part of the Web page corresponding to an entry on the list of bookmarks or favorites. The Web browser is configured to download the source code of the Web page corresponding to an entry on the bookmarks or favorites list, and to parse the source code to extract uniform resource locators (URLs) and identifying text associated with links in the source code.
